Knox Presbyterian Church, with the Technical Support Group of the Prudential Insurance Co., Toronto.

Acton, was decorated with white and yellow gladioli, mums and carnations on Saturday, July 16, 1977, for the 3:30 p.m. wedding of Carolyn Margaret Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Thompson of Acton and David Sproule, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Sproule of Fenelon Falls and formerly of Lindsay.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of organza over taffeta, with lace bodice and scooped neckline trimmed with pearls. The sleeves of matching lace, flared from the elbows to the wrists, trimmed with lace. The full skirt fell from the empire waist to form a long train with ruffled hem and also trimmed with lace, matching her gown.

She wore a veil and mantilla, which extended beyond her train and carried a cascade of yellow sweetheart roses and white miniature carnations.

The matron-of-honor was Janice Woolridge of Innerkip. The bridesmaids were Susan Tallon of Port Credit and Liz Feenstra of Guelph, cousin of the bride. They wore matching halter style gowns of yellow polyester, with co-ordinating elbow length capes of printed chiffon. They wore yellow and white rosebuds in their hair and carried rounded adaptations of the bride's bouquet.

The best man was James Woolridge of Innerkip. The ushers were David Huskinson of Lindsay and Robert McIntosh of Kitchener.

For the reception and dance, held at Acton Meadows Golf and Country Club, the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of blue polyester, the gathered empire waist trimmed with rhinestone beads. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a champagne coloured gown of chiffon, with background of brown, gold and pink floral design.

Following a honeymoon to Sandy Island, Lake Nipissing, the newlyweds reside at Bramalea.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was honored with a shower held at the Sproule home in Fenelon Falls and a family shower given by Eleanor Thompson of Acton, aunt of the bride. A presentation was also given from Prudential Life.

The newlyweds met at Waterloo, where they graduated last May. David received his Bachelor of Applied Science in Electrical Engineering and is employed with Systems Engineering Department of Northern Telecom Ltd., Bramalea. Carolyn received her Bachelor of Mathematics and Bachelor of Education, and is employed
